THE LAW SCHOOL

The College of Law was organized and opened for the admission of students in 1908, and the first class graduated in June, 1910. The first members of the law school faculty were Judge William T. Lafferty, Dean; Judge Charles Kerr, and Thomas Edwin Moore.

Shortly after the organization of the school it was placed on the approved list of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association. Beginning with the session of 1925-26 the school required two years of college work for entrance.

The Law Building. The college is housed in a building exclusively devoted to its needs. It contains three large classrooms, well-equipped offices for all the members of the faculty, a lounging and smoking room for men, and a rest room for women students. The reading room is entirely adequate for the present membership of the school, and for the present library. There is an additional room of considerable size in which more important treatises are kept, which room is especially adapted to research purposes by members of the faculty or practicing attorneys or advanced students.

The Law Library. The law library contains about twenty-six thousand volumes, and includes all the published reports of the courts of last resort and the side bar reports of every state in the Union, and also the reports of the District of Columbia and Alaska; the Philippine Reports; the Hawaiian Reports; the English Reports; the Canadian Reports; and the Irish Reports. Some four thousand treatises and textbooks are found in the library as well as the English statutes, the Canadian statutes and those of the American states. Likewise the American digests, including American Digest System and a number of English digests including the English and Empire Digest and the entire Shepard's Citator. Effort is now being made as well to extend the library facilities in the direction of treatises on jurisprudence, Roman Law and the history and philosophy of the law.

Preliminary Training for Legal Study. A two years' course preliminary to the study of law is required of all students who enter the law school, so that students must now be at least halfway through a four-year college course before they can be admitted to the law college.

THE SIX-YEAR COMBINED COURSES

Inasmuch as the requirements of the law school now call for a total of five years in college and law school before the degree of LL. B. can be obtained, the attention of the student is particularly called to the fact that with the addition of a single year, making six years in all, he can obtain the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and also the degree of Bachelor of Laws. This combined course is open to all who enter the University of Kentucky in the junior class or earlier. The first year's work in law is credited towards the academic degree of A. B. as well as towards the law degree of LL. B. In his senior year the student will take the first year's work in law and will thus obtain the A. B. degree, and upon completing the two remaining years in law, he will be granted the degree of LL. B. thus obtaining both degrees in six years.

The following schedule is suggested for those students who are interested in taking the combined Arts-Law work:

COMBINED COURSE LEADING TO THE DEGREE OF B. S. IN COMMERCE AND LL. B.

A similar combined course may be taken by students in the College of Commerce who desire to obtain the degree of B. S. in Commerce and the degree of LL. B. in six years. The first year's work in law is credited towards the degree of B. S. in Commerce as well as towards the law degree. In his senior year the student will take the first year's work in law and thus obtain the degree of B. S. in Commerce and upon completing the two remaining years in law he will be granted the degree of LL. B. thus obtaining both degrees in six years.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Admission. As already observed, applicants for admission must have completed at least half of the course leading to a degree in Arts or Science or Engineering or some other of the standard university courses, before entering the law school. In this college that means sixty semester hours exclusive of gymnasium and military science.

Requirements for Graduation. The degree of Bachelor of Laws is awarded to the student who successfully completes all the required subjects, makes a total credit of 80 semester hours, and has a standing of "1" as defined in this bulletin, i. e., an average grade of "C." This requires an attendance of three academic years spent in law study and the completion of a course that embraces all the fundamental branches of the common law.

Examinations. Credit is based on the successful passing of final examinations which are given in each subject at the close of each semester. These examinations are in writing, and are designed to test the student's knowledge of the subject and his power to reason as a lawyer on problems of facts submitted to him.

Standing. The standing of a student is determined by the ratio of his total number of points obtained by his grades to his total number of credit hours. If, for example, a student makes a credit of 80 hours with a grade of C in each course, he will have 80 points, which will mean a standing of 1. If he makes in these 80 hours a grade of B in each course, he will have two times 80 or 160 points, which will mean a standing of 2. If he makes in these 80 hours a grade of A in each course, he will have three times 80 or 240 points, which will mean a standing of 3, the highest possible standing.

In order to graduate, a student must have a standing of 1, which means that his average grade throughout his course must be at least C.

Graduation Honors. A student who has a standing of 2.6 or higher graduates with high distinction, and a student who has a standing of 2.4 up to 2.6 graduates with distinction.

The Order of the Coif is a national fraternity organized in American law schools and is devoted to the encouragement of scholarship. There are now thirty chapters. In May, 1931, a charter was granted to the University of Kentucky chapter. Fitting installation ceremonies were held on the 17th of October, 1931, at which twenty former students were initiated.

Scholarships. Four scholarships have been established by the University for excellence in scholastic work in the law school, two to be awarded to members of the first year class having the highest standing at the close of the year, and two to the members of the second year class likewise having the highest scholastic standing at the close of their second year. Some service will be required from the students holding these scholarships by way of assistance in the library.

Expenses and Tuition. There is no tuition, but an incidental fee is charged each student who is a resident of Kentucky, amounting to $50.00 each semester. The incidental fee to non-residents of Kentucky is $63.00 each semester.

Included herein are: Student Activities Fee which admits the student to all athletic contests; the Health Service Fee and the class dues.

The books required each year will cost about $40.00, but may frequently be bought second-hand at reduced prices. Board and lodging on and off the campus will range from $30.00 to $40.00 per month.

The Kentucky Law Journal. The Kentucky Law Journal is a legal periodical conducted under the auspices of the law school. All the members of the faculty contribute to it. Students are selected on the basis of scholarship as editorial assistants.

The Law Journal material is made up of leading articles on important legal subjects, of notes and comments on current topics, of editorials, of abstracts and discussions of the important recent Kentucky cases, and of reviews of books. Special subscriptions rates are provided for students in the school. At the April meeting of the Kentucky State Bar Association in 1932 the Law Journal was made the official organ of the State Bar Association and the Proceedings of the State Bar Association constitute the fifth issue of the Law Journal for the year.

Dormitories. The dormitory for men, and Patterson Hall for women, are available for law students. Application for rooms for women should be made to the Dean of Women and for men should be made to the Dean of Men thirty days prior to the opening of school. Reservations are made on the express understanding that the applicant agrees to occupy the room until the close of the semester.

Health Service. A physical examination is required of all new students at the University. It is conducted by the physicians of the University. The dispensary is open continuously throughout each day, to give medical service to the students and faculty. It is equipped to meet the demands of any emergency. An infirmary to care for sick women students is maintained at Patterson Hall. In case of serious or long continued illness, students are referred to their own physicians or to competent local physicians. This service on the campus is without further charge.

Campus Bookstore. A store under the control of University authorities on the campus, carries a full line of books and materials. Books used in the College of Law may be obtained there at any time during the year. Used books may be sold to the bookstore, and purchased there.

In connection with the bookstore, there is a University Station of the Lexington Post Office, where all the members of the University obtain their mail.

Student Loan Fund. For students who are not quite able to complete their course without help, certain loan funds are available, the amount and availability of the loan depending upon the circumstances of the students. Students on the campus in need may learn further details from the Loan Fund Committee.

Two national legal fraternities are represented at the College of Law, Clay Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, having been established in 1914, and Breckinridge Inn of Phi Delta Phi having been established in 1925. The law students are eligible for membership in the social fraternities on the campus.

The Henry Clay Law Society is a discussion club, open to all members of the student body, which holds bi-weekly debates on legal, economic and civic problems. The society has had an honorable history from the time the law school was first organized in 1908, and is at present organized in the form of a law club.

Part-Time Employment. The law course is designed to occupy the full working time of the student. In many cases however, it is necessary that the law student earn part of his way through law school, and in such cases where the need is apparent the student is permitted to have outside employment. The city of Lexington, through its business houses, usually cooperates splendidly in making part-time positions available to students. It is the earnest advice of the law faculty, however, that all students who find it necessary to take a part-time position should reduce their classroom hours and lighten their law school work by taking courses in summer sessions or by spending more than three full years in the law school.

Admission to the Bar. Admission to the bar in this state is regulated by statute which requires the Court of Appeals of Kentucky to make and adopt rules and regulations fixing the moral qualifications, standard of acquirements, both academic and legal, to entitle applicants to admission. If the report is accepted and the applicant has studied law for a period of at least two years, he will be examined by the Board of Examiners on his knowledge of the law and their report will be made to the Court, and license granted if the report is favorable. Examinations will be in writing and are held twice a year.

As residents of Lexington, students will find in the courts of Fayette County and the U. S. District Court, which are in continuous session, ample opportunity for observing litigation in civil and criminal law.
